Sports on Dominion Day.

In spite of the threatening appearance of the weather, a good crowd flocked to the Fair Grounds last Saturday afternoon, where the Athletic Association had invited it to witness the running of an excellent program of sports to celebrate Dominion Day.

The first number on the bill was the baseball game between Graminia and Victoria High pupils, which resulted in a win for the latter by 6 to 5. The winner of this game played Stony Plain, the latter winning by 7 to 6.

Following are the results of the several events—

1st Race, 1/4 mile, under 14 hands—1st heat.	2:10.00	25.00
Geo Graden 1, C. Wengler 2.
Pony Race, half mile, under 14 hands—1st heat.	10.00	5.00
A. J. Shaul 1, Gwynne Davis 2.
Pony Race, half mile, under 14 hands—1st heat.	25.00	15.00
Joe Baerlin 1, Hy Knapp 2.
Quarter Mile Race, half mile, first heat.	15.00	10.00
Tony Howson 1, John Howes 2, Joe Machel 3.
Free for All Running Race, half mile.	20.00	10.00
P. Falkner 1, G. Graden 2.
Automobile Race, Ponds only. Owners must reside in Stony Plain, Constituency. First prize, five and five.
J. A. Berry 1, Sam Zucht 2, Gus Zucht 3.

Football resulted—Stony Plain 4, Spruce Grove 2.

The basketball game did not materialise.

During the playing of the baseball game "Doc" Maynard was inadvertently struck on the back of the head with a bat. In the pony race, young George Shaul, was thrown when his pony made for the gate first time round. The only other mishap reported was that of the Scotsman who had walked in 18 miles to witness the Sports, only to find himself too tired to climb over the fence.

Stony Plain Garage.

Work was commenced last week on the contract of the new building for Mr. J. H. Miller's Garage, under the able supervision of contractor Umbach. The work will be pushed to full capacity of the workmen, as the Proprietor is anxious to accommodate car users as soon as possible with an up-to-date Garage. The interior will be fitted on a elaborate than the former building.

Another Grain Elevator.

That Stony Plain is becoming noted as a grain-growing center is again evidenced by the fact that another elevator company is about to erect a standard building for receiving grain. After a careful survey of other prospects in nearby places, the Federal Grain Company, with head offices at Winnipeg, has decided to locate at Stony. Surveyors were out a short time ago, and staked out a site near Herb Ingram's oil tanks, on the old Canadian Northern tracks. Work was commenced Friday in clearing the ground for the foundation, and it is expected that the new concern will be in a position to receive grain when threshing in this district commences.

Be Vigilant

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. This is a maxim true in all walks of life, but it is especially true in the lives of Western Canada farmers during these admittedly trying years. Farmers with years of experience in these Prairie Provinces have come to understand conditions and well know what should be done, and can be done, better than anyone else, but the fact must be recognized that here in the West hundreds, yes thousands, of men are engaging in the work of agriculture who are more or less new to this country and have not yet gained that experience of conditions here which will enable them to combat adverse conditions with the largest possible measure of success. It may, therefore, not be out of place, and, indeed, of some value, to emphasize one or two factors which are essential to success in this country.

At the time of writing agricultural conditions in Western Canada are distinctly favorable; more favorable in fact than they have been for some years. According to mid-June reports from all parts of the West the growing crop is most promising. Alberta has more moisture than in any season for five or six years past, and both Saskatchewan and Alberta have been visited with copious rain over large areas, with the result that all grain is making splendid growth. The reduction in the acreage sown to wheat in some sections is fairly well offset by increases in other grains.

But let it be repeated, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and liberty for the Western farmer at the present time means security from the many dangers which threaten the growing crops. Some things he cannot prevent—bail, for example. But where it is impossible for him to adopt preventive measures, he can provide some measure of security through insurance. The wise man will make such provision. If his crop escapes, he can well afford to pay the premium; if he suffers full losses, he is the gainer and all is not lost.

In recent years the West has suffered enormously from the grasshopper pest. Experience has now shown how to successfully combat this scourge, and preparations for so doing have been made by Governments and municipalities on a large scale. It remains for the farmers, individually and collectively, to unite their efforts through the most effective co-operation with official agencies fight this scourge to a finish. As the motto of the Rotary Clubs may be done. It remains for the farmer to do his part comparatively short period of time. It is a fight which, if waged successfully this year, will likewise bring results in improved conditions in the years to come.

Then there is the weed pest. It, too, must be fought. Unless it is, it will conquer in the end; and, unfortunately, it is not merely the slothful, lazy, indifferent farmer who suffers from it, but his industrious neighbor as well, and the community as a whole. In districts where the late, wet spring made cropping of the land impossible, farmers should this year wage unrelenting warfare on weeds and the nearest family in their district should be brought to book by municipal authorities. If the individual farmer who allows his hand to run to weeds suffered alone, it would be serious enough; but when through his slothfulness and neglect whole districts are threatened and should and must be made to act in the public interest if he will not in his own.

As the season advances, and the grains and grasses ripen and dry, all possible safeguards against the scourge should be provided. Last year property loss in Canada from fire totaled over $45,000,000, or more than $5.00 for every man, woman and child in Canada, not to speak of the even more serious loss of life and others and means whereby the farmer will receive an adequate monetary reward for his toil and husbandry, but their best efforts will hardly net as substantial results as can be achieved by many individual farmers for themselves through the taking of absolutely necessary precautions and thereby preventing losses against which legislation will not protect them.

Constant vigilance, and the taking of simple, commonsense precautions for a few short summer and early fall months may easily result in larger gains than all the legislation in the world can provide, and without which all legislation is futile.

BARELY LIVED THROUGH IT

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor, of Saint Ste Marie. From boyhood he writes: "I have been a constant sufferer from Asthma and Catarrh. My nose and throat were often stopped up, and I had disagreeable droppings from my throat. When an attack of coughing came on, it seemed as if I would barely live through it. I would gasp for breath. Catarrhous made me well. Its soothing healing action was exactly suited to my case." To those who suffer from Catarrh, Asthma, Throat Irritation and Bronchitis, Catarrhous is highly recommended. HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst. You have nervous and dizzy spells, sinking sensations, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath. We know of no remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy normal condition as MILBURN'S

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes: "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip-hammer and at times was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near. A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first one was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now although in my 68th year I feel like a young girl, no dizziness or heart-thumping, and can walk up stairs without fatigue. At time of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150." Get a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Value of Raisins

Raisins Make Plain Foods More Attractive and Healthful

Because of their valuable iron-content, delicious flavor and economy, raisins are becoming more and more popular in most every home. The addition of raisins to everyday foods makes them more tasty, and of greater health-benefit.

Many housewives have discovered too, that by flavoring with raisins they can popularize bread in their homes, making it one of the most attractive foods they serve.

The luscious sauces formed from the sugar of the raisins when they are baked in a loaf of bread, permeates the dough with a rich raisin flavor. The sugar, in practically pre-digested form in raisins, is quickly turned into renewed vitality. When you are overworked and tired, it is because you have exhausted your energy. Then you need energizing nutriment, and a food like raisins, rich in sugar, will often revitalize you.

Organic iron, so plentiful in raisins, makes red blood. The blood assimilates it readily and none of the digestive organs are taxed. For building up enduring strength and energy there is probably no food combining this function with such a delicious flavor as raisins.

Many plain foods that you serve regularly can be made more attractive to every member of your household, and more beneficial in a healthful way, by adding raisins. This is especially true in warm weather, when the excessive heat saps so much of your energy. A good starter is raisin bread—buy a loaf from your baker tonight and serve it regularly. Its popularity in your home and its ability to replenish tired people toward the end of a warm day will surprise you.

A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. Some Of The Benefits To The Public From The Cold Storage System

J. A. Riddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, says:

"The cold storage industry has to contend with much misunderstanding and misrepresentation. It has been the football of the denigrators, and others who pandar to popular prejudice. The general public, getting its information largely from such sources, has been misled as to the proper functions and uses of cold storage. There has been much confusion of mind even in certain official circles, and very often the term 'cold storage' is used when the reference is to something which is purely a matter of trading, and has really nothing to do with cold storage.

"A short time ago we had a woman who celebrated enquiry into the profits made in the handling of bacon. It had nothing whatever to do with cold storage, and yet the newspapers referred to it day after day in glaring headlines as 'the cold storage enquiry.' There is need for clearing thinking along these lines in order that the people generally may have a better understanding of the relation of the cold storage industry to the trade in food products, and its effect on food supply and prices.

"The prejudice against cold storage comes under two heads. First, that which is based on the belief that the cold storage warehouse is responsible, in some degree at least, for the increased cost of living. Why cold storage should have been chosen as the scapegoat in connection with excitement arising out of the increased cost of living is not very easy to understand, but it seems to be a fact. Then there is the conviction, firmly implanted in the minds of many people, that the cold storage of food products inevitably results in deterioration of quality.

"Regarding the relation between cold storage and the cost of food products, there is possibly some room for argument, but that cold storage facilities for the holding of goods of seasonal production is practically the only means which we have of preserving the surplus in many foods from the period of flush production to the period when the production is not equal to the consumptive demand. The real effect of cold storage on prices is to stabilize; to prevent glut in the market which depresses the price to the point where production becomes unremunerative and ceases, by absorbing the surplus and carrying it forward to the period of 'scarce' production, and thus preventing prices from going as high as they otherwise would. It would be impossible to produce the large quantities of population with certain foods during the slack season of production without cold storage facilities. After all there is no difference in principle between preserving food products in cold storage or preserving them in the form of canned goods or in using elevators to store surplus grain at the time of its being harvested until such time as it is required for consumption.

"With regard to the effect of cold storage on the quality of food products, I can only say that the very common belief that the quality is inevitably injured is not justified by the facts of the case. It is undoubtedly true that foods coming out of cold storage are frequently of inferior quality, but that only proves that the quality was inferior when they were put into cold storage. Cold storage will not restore the quality, and at best it can only be expected to preserve foods in the same condition as received, providing they are held under a proper temperature. In a general way it is true that the preservative effect of cold storage diminishes in proportion to the extent that deterioration has taken place before the goods are stored. It very often happens that goods are placed in cold storage only when the owner has reason to believe that there is immediate danger of their spoiling. This is, of course, very unfair to cold storage, and such goods should be refused admission."

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was conceived in Marshall, Michigan, in 1863.

England's Estates Changing Hands

Day of Great Landlord-Proprietor Drawing to a Close

Current History for June records the passing of the landed proprietors of Great Britain. The houses of England—and likewise of Scotland and Wales—are changing hands, and the ever-growing sales and conventions in town and country are eloquent evidence of the new social revolution now occurring in Great Britain. War taxes are driving thousands of old families to part with their lands. Facts and figures published by The London Times on April 21, 1922, give interesting data. A single firm had offered for sale only five days before a total of 13,000 acres belonging to the category of landed properties. Only 343 acres remain of the famous Holme Lacy Mansion, which originally embraced over five square miles, including a deer park and five miles of salmon fishing in the Wyre. The late Lord Manton's Suffolk estate, 7,650 acres; Hawkstone, Salop, 2,385 acres; Inglemere Hall, Yorkshire, 5,000 acres; Colworth, Sir Albion, 5,000 acres; Bedfordshire estate, 2,300 acres; the Duke of Hamilton's estates of nearly 51,000 acres among the properties recently put up at auction.

The tendency to break up estates is not confined to the country, but extends also to city property everywhere; thus the Covent Garden contract, representing a downright sale of property that involved many questionable interests, attracted considerable attention. A number of London properties in central sites have also been sold or are up for sale, including the Foundling Hospital. Many fine old town houses and suburban estates filled with Elizabethan memories are going under the hammer. The list of large mansions and old manor houses, which, already divested of their broad acres, await new tenants at moderate rentals, in some cases inclusive of old furniture and works of art, fill whole pages of the London papers. The day of the great landed proprietors of Great Britain is swiftly drawing to its close.

Newspaper Tendencies

Change for the Better in Influence of the Press

The presence of the three national leaders, Messrs. King, Meighen and Crerar, at the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association was in itself a striking proof of the "power of the press," to which each one made more or less direct reference. And some very true tributes were paid to the weekly newspaper press by the leaders. Comments were made between the daily and weekly journals and their respective spheres. But over all and in every department, there is a change in process, and on the whole it is for the better. Mr. Crerar spoke of the latest prize fight, the details of the most recent murder and also what happened on the Hill.

These are given, it is true, but less attention is now devoted to the details of either the prize fight or murder than was formerly the case. Social constructive news now takes the place of the first page in preference to the newest sensation in crime, and the news story, well written and impartially compiled, is tending more and more to influence public opinion. The responsible newspaper of today is directed with the definite aim in view of presenting news and views impartially, and with a full realization of the responsibilities that accompany its production. There are, perhaps, exceptions, but these only serve to clearer contrast the newspapers which conscientiously endeavor to be independent, fair and free from tainting influences. The Ottawa Citizen.

Homesteading in Alberta
Homesteading in Alberta still has its lure for incoming settlers and the spring has seen a flurry in all parts of the Edmonton land office. In one week twenty-seven entries on land were made at the Edmonton office, the locations covering a wide area.

Good Crop Prospects

Signs Indicate that a Heavy Crop Will Be Harvested This Year

The crop prospects in all three western prairie provinces, as viewed at the latter part of June, were never better. If nothing happens within the next few weeks Western Canada may produce the largest crop since that memorable year of 1915, when the grain growers were favored with two in one. At no time since that era has the preliminary survey been so uniformly satisfactory. Generally speaking, the acreage is well up to former years, though in some districts there may be a slightly less acreage in wheat, but this is made up to a large extent by other grains. The early part of June started in with one of the most intensive heat waves experienced in the prairie in many years, but, fortunately, this soon developed into a quick change to decidedly cool weather, with rain in all provinces, which naturally relieved a tense situation. Since then the growing conditions could hardly have been more desirable, and all grains are making remarkable progress with a freshness and vigor which could not be expected. The outlook for a bountiful crop of British Columbia fruit of all kinds is equally as good as the possibilities for grain on the prairies—a prospect which, if fulfilled, will have a highly important influence on business conditions from one coast to the other in Canada.

Stella Explains a Queer Sea Animal to Her Brownies.

STELLA'S Brownies had been so completely fascinated seeing the fierce, angry fight between the two Herring Gulls for which they had both been so early in earnest that they really were sorry when the funny little battle was over—when one "Herring" had wandered away and the other had decided to rest in the comfortable shell house, from which it had been driven out by its "Herring" enemy.

After the "Herring" had retreated as far down as possible into its home and the fight really was a thing of the past, the four Brownies all drew a deep, "well-to-do" breath, and then they looked around, hoping for more strange sights to see.

Safely perched on the rocks, they were gazing down into the quiet water in a rock beside Snodgrass. "I wish they'd come straight through to the sandy bottom, and oh, how many, many queer things they saw. Their attention was promptly claimed by the odd kind of gray, shell "honey combs" that seemed to be attached and growing from one of the rocks under the water.

"What in the world can those be?" Kinkajou thoughtfully murmured. "I never saw anything like them! Let's wish that Stella were here so that she could tell us."

"Yes, let's!" exclaimed the other three Brownies, and they all closed their eyes very tight and "wished" ever so hard for their darling Wishing Fairy.

In less than a minute she was with them—she had come all the way from the End-of-the-Earth! The Brownies were all surprised when they opened their eyes and saw her, for they knew only too well that she would feel their wish and join them as quickly as magic made possible.

"Well, what do you want me asked with a smile as she sat down on a rock beside Snodgrass. "I know that you were wishing for me, so here I am. We want you to tell us what those curious things are, Stella, dear."

Answered Stella as he pointed to the honey comb-like growth on the rock "See," he cried excitedly, "there is a funny little wave branch coming out from one of the cells!"

"Oh!" exclaimed the three Brownies, and they all followed the Wishing Fairy as she pointed her finger.

"Those are Barnacles, and they make themselves at home wherever they feel that wave out from their shells. See, lots of them are now waving their feet— they always do that when the water is motionless and they are undisturbed by waves. It is how they get their food. The leathery part of these feet (for branches, as you called them a moment ago) stir the surrounding water and in this way send all kinds of small sea creatures into their mouths—sea creatures that are too tiny to be seen. When a Barnacle is frightened it draws in these plumed feet very deep and tightly closes its shell against its enemies. They cannot move away, as you can see, for each Barnacle is attached to the rock; but then, they don't want to. They are perfectly happy and their babies swim early thousand and they become a certain age, and then they take a firm hold onto a rock, the bottom of a boat or some piece of old wood and begin growing little shells of their own. And then they stay in place until they are old, when their shells remain until they, too, rot away, and more Barnacles grow in their place.

Accumulated Evidence Shows The Advantages Of Purebred Over Common Livestock

Advantage of Cheap Feed

Canadians Can Feed Hogs for Market More Cheaply than Danes

Canadian producers have distinct advantages which should encourage them, though they must recognize the intelligent competition and high standard of the Danish product if progress is to be made. Prof. George E. Dyer, over fifteen years ago, stated the position very plainly when he wrote:—

"The Canadian product is taken by the large English cities, especially London, and customers are found among the well-to-do classes, who are willing to pay a premium for an article of superior quality. At the present time, Canada's most formidable competitor is Denmark. The Danes produce an article of higher average quality than that produced by the Canadians, and obtain a higher average price on the London market. The only thing which enables Canada to compete with Denmark, is the fact that Canadians can feed their hogs more cheaply than the Danes, and thus afford to undersell them. The great drawback to Canadian bacon is its lack of uniformity. There are too many breeds of swine in Canada to have uniformity in the quality of bacon, and the sooner Canadians realize this fact, and make a special effort to produce exactly what the market demands, the better it will be for their trade, because there is no reason why Canada cannot produce as good bacon as Denmark, if her farmers go about their business with the same intelligence. To produce a good Wiltshire side of bacon requires a hog of certain definite peculiarities as to weight, constitution and conformation."

Does purebred livestock pay? Much evidence has been accumulated to support the opinion that it pays and recently actual figures have been available from a practical source to show its advantages compared to common stock. D. S. Birch, of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States, went to 525 successful livestock producers, owning about 25,000 head of breeding stock of different kinds and from their figures has worked out a set of averages.

"The superiority, based on utility, of purebred over common stock," he says, "is evident from the following figures":

Class	Superior earning power
Dairy Cattle	47.8
Swine	38.3
Sheep	37.8
Best Cattle	36.8
Averages for all farm classes	40.4

In explanation of the figures Mr. Birch adds that they "were obtained during the last part of 1921 in a period of marked depression in the livestock industry. Partly for that reason they are conservative, even though pointing to an unusually high value of purebreds over common stock."

The 525 farmers had all used purebred sires, for an average of nine years, and about 30 per cent. of their female stock was purebred. And when the sales of stock for breeding purposes were considered, in addition to the sales of animals and products for market, "the average reported increase in financial returns traceable to the use of purebred sires was 43 per cent."

Thus we have it in a nutshell:

- "Based on utility alone (entirely apart from breeding or sales value) purebred livestock, by an average power from a third to one-half greater than scrub stock. The average superiority of purebreds over scrubs for all classes of farm animals is about 40 per cent."
- "The average increase in financial returns, from livestock raising, traceable to the use of purebred sires, is 43 per cent."

A Demonstration Farm

Illustration Station is Established at Riverhurst, Sask.

In carrying out its plan of establishing illustration farms the Dominion Department of Agriculture has arranged with R. F. Rudd, of Riverhurst, Sask., to have part of his farm devoted to this purpose. Five acres will be sown with winter wheat, need of various varieties which will be a source from which farmers in the district may secure a limited supply of new seed.

A serious condition has arisen in a large area of the province owing to shortage of feed for wintering stock, and an effort will be made to demonstrate that hay and clover, corn, sunflowers and other silage crops can be successfully grown. If these crops prove successful a silo will be erected and machinery provided for handling the crop. These implements will be loaned any farmers who join in the effort to find a practical solution of the feed problem. The Government is also prepared to encourage silos by a small grant towards the same.

R. F. Rudd, proprietor and manager of the farm and illustration station, is a very successful farmer. He has farmed at Davidson, Givins and Riverhurst for a number of years, and is familiar with all the conditions and handicaps under which farmers labor.

An Egyptian Love-Letter

In the days when the pyramids were building, 4,000 years ago, the Egyptian lover used to scratch his love's name on a brick and toss it through the window to the Egyptian maiden of his choice. The Egyptian and Arabian definition of love was the same as that of the troubadours. They believed it was the union of two souls united in the world above. They also believed that love entered the heart through the eyes. The ancient lovers believed one could fall in love with a woman simply by hearing a description of her.

Select Laxative Medicine With Great Care

In debility and weakness, medicine should be mild and far reaching. Many pills and purgatives are too hard, are drastic instead of curative. Excessive action is always followed by depression, and knowing this Dr. Hamilton devised his pills of Man-dra-ke and Butternut so as to mildly increase liver and kidney activity, so as to flush out the system of toxins and regulating the bowels. Thus Dr. Hamilton's Pills eliminate poisons from the body, thus do they restore clearness to the skin, thus do they re-new health and strength. To keep your system in healthy good working order, regulate it with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. See all dealers or The Catartho-zone Co., Montreal.

I laughed. "I hope my application did not give you such a false impression," I said.

"I was just looking for false impressions," Miss Fiske replied. "When Dad said that you did not seem to have had the sort of experience that we wanted, and that he'd bet you were a lady that never done a day's work in your life—because you said 'shall'—where we would say 'will'—I told him that I was going to have you anyway. You see, she finished apologetically. 'I am the youngest of the family and the only girl, and I suppose I am spoiled.'"

After this explanation we talked with less constraint, and by the time we reached the farm I had classified Miss Gypsy as a new and very interesting specimen.

John Fiske is the proud owner of a model farm, and as such he has been photographed and interviewed for all the agricultural journals in the province. Unlike most of the farm homes we had passed, this one is surrounded by trees, the native poplars and Halm of Glendale, and magnificent Scotch firs that were planted thirty years ago by Mrs. Fiske when she came here a bride. The house stands on a natural terrace, and below this is a level stretch of lawn which reaches to the bank of the little river. At a good distance from the house are the barns and other outbuildings, among the latter being a galvanneum iron garage as obviously new as its owners.

"We'll just drive around to the kitchen door," said Miss Fiske. "Mother

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Miss Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

will likely be getting supper ready." Mrs. Fiske came to meet us and welcomed me kindly, but I could see that she too was rather surprised by my appearance. I am beginning to think that I must have an awfully helpless look!

"Just get here a minute," she said, after we had been introduced. "Miss Orvett takes the car to the garage." (She pronounces "garage" to rhyme with "garage.") I don't like to leave these potatoes long enough to take you upstairs."

Fiske is a fine-looking woman, and it is evidently from her that Gypsy inherits her beautiful skin and old coloring. But it is also quite evident that Mrs. Fiske's description of her as the stupidest critter she ever knew is not far wrong. Mrs. Fiske probably did the best she could with a limited vocabulary, but if I were asked to describe Mrs. Fiske in one word, that word would be "bovine."

Gypsy came back in a few minutes and we went upstairs together. As we stood on the landing to admire the view, Mrs. Fiske called Gypsy back. In a moment she returned to me, smiling.

"Mother said I was to ask you if you would rather have the spare bedroom than the one that the other girls have had. I think that you will like the hired girl's room best—I know I do. Did you ever sleep on a feather tick in a room that is decorated by your Christmas presents?"

I was obliged to admit that such a pleasure was still in store for me, and also that I would prefer to occupy the room that had been prepared for me. I have seen the feather tick and the Christmas presents since, and I think I chose wisely.

I was surprised to learn that the house contained a very up-to-date bathroom, the water for which is pumped by a gasoline engine from a well in the basement.

At the tea-table I met Mr. Fiske and the son, Fred. There is another son, the eldest of the family, who is married and living on a place of his own not far away. Gypsy tells me that Fred is to be married at Christmas, to the district school-teacher, and she adds that a teacher is as hard to keep in the country as a servant.

Mr. Fiske has four "hired men," but they do not have their meals with the family. In the old house, where room was at a premium, they did so; but now, at the risk of being called a snob, Mrs. Fiske sets the family table in the dining room and the men eat in the kitchen. I have not read a great many stories of farm life in America, but in all that I have read the awkward labourer eating peas with a knife was one of the indispensable properties. Another illusion vanished.

When the evening work was done, Mr. and Mrs. Fiske and Gypsy and I met in the parlour to discuss my affairs.

Before I go any farther I must describe that parlour, the queerest mixture of good and bad taste that I have ever seen. A very good carpet was on the floor, and white lace curtains, elaborately draped and held in place by bows of red ribbon, covered the windows. The plush-covered "parlour suite" was made all the more glaring by a few pieces of really good oak. The pictures ranged from the "Pears" Soap school in massive gilt frames to properly mounted sepia prints. And at one end of the room was a mirror-set organ, while at the other was the player-piano which was a birthday gift from Mr. Fiske to his daughter. In the midst of all this grandeur sat Mr. Fiske himself, content and colorless.

Gypsy broke the silence. "I guess you were right about Miss Elliot, Dad. I'm sorry I was so stubborn. But can't she stay and visit me until you find a really truly hired girl?"

"That is for Miss Elliot to say," Mr. Fiske replied with a kindly smile. "Oh, I would love to stay, even if I did come under false pretences." I hastened to say; "but only if you will let me help around the house. I can do a few things, you know."

"Well, Mother, what do you say?" asked Mr. Fiske.

"I'd be real glad to have you stay, Miss Elliot," replied his wife. "Gypsy don't seem to take to the neighbours' girls, an' I often think that she must get lonely here all day with no young folks to talk to."

"Hurrah!" exclaimed Gypsy. "I'm not such a dismal failure as an employment agent after all, am I?" and she hugged first her father and then her mother—and then gave me a shy little squeeze too!

So I wrote to Mrs. Arnold at once and told her I should be here as Gypsy's Fiske's guest for a couple of weeks, and then I felt that I could turn right in and have a good time," according to Mr. Fiske's instructions. For the benefit of philologists let me record that "right" is the most overworked word in the Canadian vocabulary.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows us favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not. Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrup was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

Neutral Zone In Ireland May Solve Difficulties For North And South

Belfast.—The big neutral zone experiment, establishing a five-mile strip of neutral territory in the Pettigo and Belleek district of the Ulster-Force State border, under a triple agreement by the British, the provisional and northern governments, is made effective, Premier Sir James Craig, of Ulster, told an interviewer.

Premier Craig said the military took complete control of two and one half miles on either side of the border, the Royal Ulster Constabulary taking one side and the Free State police, unarmed, occupying the other side of the border.

Premier Craig explained that the zone was an experiment, but if it proved satisfactory it might be extended to other portions of the border where disturbances constantly were arising, especially where the railway ran in and out of Free State territory past Lifford.

Sir James intimated that if the neutral zone system worked out as it was intended, it might supersede the proposed boundary commission which Ulster had refused to recognize. The zone would make no difference in the administration of local affairs.

"Military control in the zone," the premier continued, "will not mean martial law, which I regard as the negation of all law. The zone might last a few years until conditions have settled down and Ireland is quiet again. Our legal advisors on the spot recommend it as an experiment intended to deal with an exceptionally difficult problem."

Lord Mayor Coates said that when he visited the home of the late Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson on the day of his assassination, Lady Wilson said to him: "I trust his death will be a benefit to the future of Ireland."

"From that moment," the lord mayor continued, "I resolved to make one more appeal to the inhabitants of Belfast. It is right to ask those who are Protestants, Catholics or Loyalists, out of respect to the memory of the late Sir Henry, and second, all Roman Catholics, who very often complain that those of their religion are objects of attack—to ask every one in fact, to refrain for the next 10 days from all acts of violence and disorder and from all burning and looting. It is a bold request to make. God grant that it may be received in the spirit in which it is made."

Germans Could Build Long-Planned Tunnel

Minister of Public Works Submits Plan to French Government

Paris.—A huge war reparations plan under which the Germans who reconstructed France and also build the long-planned tunnel under the English Channel has been submitted by the Minister of Public Works, M. Le Troquer, to Premier Poincare, who has laid it before the French members of the reparations commission. The plan involves the use of German labor and materials to the extent of 20,000,000 francs.

The newspapers publishing the details fully approve the project, declaring that under it Germany cannot refuse to pay. They assert that if she is able to carry on the construction of railways and telegraph lines in Germany she is able to reconstruct the war-torn areas in France and also to help build the canals, electric power plants and railways which are needed in France and which are now under partial construction.

Canada Should Advertise

Member of British Parliament Says We Should Tell the World What We Produce

Toronto.—Canada needs world-wide publicity, declared Sir Charles F. Higham, member of the British Parliament for South Islington, in an interview here. As an Englishman who is supposed to know what is going on in the world, he said he did not know very much about Canada because it did not advertise very much.

"I do not know the type of manufactures Canada can produce," Mr. Higham said. "What Canada is famous for is her fine soldiers—admitted as such by everybody who came into contact with them during the war, and the envy of all nations." They gave the world a great advertisement of Canadian manhood, now in peace times the same must be done for Canadian products in the world's markets.

Berlin.—One man is reported to have been killed and ten others wounded in disturbances which followed a big demonstration in Hamburg over the assassination of Foreign Minister Rathenau.

Official announcement has been made that Chancellor Wirth temporarily had taken over the portfolio of foreign minister, made vacant through the assassination of Dr. Rathenau.

Paris.—Accusing Communist deputies in the French chamber of inciting a plot to assassinate Premier Poincare and demanding that a law be passed immediately authorizing the Minister of Justice to place the most violent members of the Communist party under arrest, Leon Daudet, royal member of Parliament, caused an uproar in the chamber. The debate developed into invectives against the Premier from the Communist benches in which the cry, "Poincare means war," was sung at M. Poincare by Deputy Ernest Lafont.

No General Election Before Next Session Announced By Premier

Ottawa.—Sir Louis Davies, Deputy Governor-General, in formally proroguing Parliament, reviewed legislation passed during the session which has closed. The act based on the report of the special committee on transportation costs would "effect immediate substantial reductions of freight rates in a manner which cannot fail to be of far-reaching benefit to all parts of the Dominion," it was declared.

Measures adopted for the returned men would do much to ensure fulfillment of the patriotic purposes they were intended to serve. By amendment to the election laws, full freedom of the franchise had been secured for additional thousands of Canadian women.

J. T. Shaw (Progressive) West Calgary, asked whether the Premier could give an assurance that redistribution would proceed the next general election.

"I think I can assure the Honorable Gentleman," replied Lion Mackenzie King, "that there will be no election before the next session of parliament, and as soon as the next session convenes it is the intention of the Government to introduce a redistribution measure."

E. J. Garland (Progressive), Bow River, asked whether there would be a fall session of parliament.

Mr. King replied that in this matter he wished to consult the convenience of members of parliament and he understood from the three whips that it would suit the great majority of the members if parliament met early in January. This announcement was greeted with loud cheers.

"The Right Honorable gentleman," commented the leader of the opposition, "has retired from his last possible position, not with good grace, but with as good grace as could be expected."

"I may remark," returned the premier, "that the leader of the opposition has accepted it with his usual grace."

"Because," answered Mr. Meighen, "he has now taken up the position that I have always occupied, and this is one of the great reforms that was promised which has turned out not to be a reform at all but merely a promise."

Standard Roads for Alberta.

The Provincial Department of Public Works has decided to qualify for some of the grants the Federal Government is giving for standard highway construction, and the work to be done on the roads this summer will be with this end in view. Some $400,000 may possibly be earned before the end of the year.

Commissioner H. Dimsdale, newly appointed under the Alberta Highway Act, is preparing standard plans which will be applied to all main highway work in future.

Edmonton Exhibition.

Every facility will be afforded out of town people to see the Edmonton Exhibition this year, as the railway companies are offering special excursion rates, and for those who come in "on their own" there will be arranged special camping accommodation. Bring your own tent or rent one from the exhibition offices. There will be a splendid display of products of industrial firms, and all the latest innovations will be on view.

When it comes to attractions one has to have a special page to tell about them. Horse races, of course, and judging from the way the horses have been going through their training this spring, they will be literally burning the track up.

Auto races, too—the fastest performers on the dirt tracks on the continent will be on hand. The meat stand will allow themselves a thrill when the auto races are on.

Just as interesting and thrilling, but affording more variation, will be the platform attractions, which will give all the novelty and charm of the best in vaudeville, without any of the limitations which the confinement of the ordinary theater demands.

It looks like a great show—the dates are July 8-15.

Prospective Price of Wheat.

The price of wheat continues fairly high, and seems more likely to advance than to decline, says the Northwest Farmer. At that, however, there is not a great deal in the situation to interest farmers. Very little wheat was in farmers' hands when the advance came; how the market may act when one has no wheat to sell is not a matter of consuming interest, except in this particular: The price of wheat next fall is being determined to some extent by what is happening now or will happen between now and the harvesting of the United States winter wheat crop.

The first point about the recent rise in wheat prices was that it was due to wheat scarcity and to nothing else. Early in January it became clear that if the world was to scrape through on the supply of wheat in sight, the winter wheat crop of the United States would have to come through the winter in the best possible shape. If anything happened or threatened to happen the winter crop there was a strong chance that the supply of wheat would not be sufficient to meet requirements. Something did seriously threaten the winter wheat crop and the market acted exactly as one would expect it to act. It went up strong and fast.

At this writing it looks as if the price of wheat would remain on a higher level for some time, a level that in all probability will hold until the crop to be sown this season is ready to market. We are of the opinion that wheat prices will rise strong and high the remainder of this season and will carry well into the new cereal year. There is nothing at present to suggest a decline. The same holds for oats and other grains with the exception of flax. Flax is in extra strong position. We see no reason why it should weaken for a considerable time, at least until such time as the supply situation reverses itself.

For Smaller Farms.

Outside agricultural experts have said frequently that the average western farm was too large. The tendency in the past, on the part of our own experts has been to dispute this and to say that such an opinion is founded on lack of appreciation of distinctive western conditions.

But a change has been manifest of late and we find the gospel of smaller farms being preached by the western agricultural leaders. A speaker at a recent agricultural meeting said: "Handle a small farm, keep live stock, raise grass and feed it, and it will go a long way towards holding your own place." In Winnipeg about the same time, Mr. C. S. Noble—who has experimented as has no other man in Alberta, with big farming—made this statement:

Farmers in the west have cultivated large areas simply because land was cheap. But we must get away from the idea of so many acres and turn our attention to the number of bushels per acre to get the best results, he said. Under present labor conditions the man who intensively cultivates a half section will make greater gains than the large scale farmer.

A big population of small farmers, who are personally interested in the land, will bring prosperity to the prairies.

CATARRAHAL DEAFNESS

Is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions. Circulars free. All Druggists. Canada's Extensive Trade

Stands First in Volume of Commerce Per Head of Population

Addressing the parliamentary committee of the League of Nations, Sir Charles Gordon, one of the Canadian delegates, stated that in volume of imports and exports Canada stood fourth among the thirty-four nations represented. In volume of commerce per head of population Canada stands first, and in export trade third, being exceeded only by Great Britain and France.

THERE IS DANGER IN WATERY BLOOD

If Not Corrected Serious Results May Follow

In no trouble is delay or neglect more dangerous than anaemia, a poverty of the blood. It is a very common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors. It makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized.

But taken in time there is a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had much success in the treatment of this stubborn trouble because of this wonderful property. The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything can be. Take as an example the case of Miss Mary D. Kelly, Charlestown, P.E.I., who says: "My blood was thin and watery and my system very much run down. I could not do any work or walk upstairs without resting. I suffered greatly from headaches, my appetite was poor and I was also troubled with indigestion. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a short time the results showed they were just the medicine I needed. I only used six boxes but am now feeling stronger and better than I have done for several years. From my personal experience I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Short Course for Publishers

Great Interest Being Taken in Conference of Western Weekly Newspaper Men

The first Short Course and Conference for Newspaper Publishers, which was held at Manitoba Agricultural College in August last year, provided four days of interest, value and enjoyment to the newspaper men who attended it and was the successful beginning of a community service of importance to the West. It is now an assured certainty that this year's Short Course and Conference, which likewise will be of four days' duration, beginning Tuesday, August 8, will be still more interesting and enjoyable and of greater value to those attending it. It will be a greater success, a success on a larger scale.

Governments and all other human institutions exist for the purpose of serving the community, and their justification for existence can be measured only by the value of their service to the community. The Department of Agriculture of Manitoba provides community service of many kinds and in varied ways; a large proportion of this service has Manitoba Agricultural College as its centre and basis of operation, and the improvement of agriculture, the betterment of the conditions of life and work of the men and women engaged in the basic industry of this country as its purpose. Every agency, method and system which serves that purpose serves and promotes the progress and prosperity of the country as a whole.

Nothing is more important in this connection than the promotion of a vigorous community spirit in every district. The local newspaper is, or should be, the voice of the community spirit. In co-operating with the local newspapers by means of the Short Course and Conference, Manitoba Agricultural College is thus doing a public service of inestimable value.

The committees in charge are making plans for the Short Course and Conference next August which will provide, as has been noted above, even more varied interest and enjoyment for each day than characterized last year's Short Course and Conference. The newspapermen who bring their wives with them will be doubly delighted, and so will their wives. There will be no lack of entertainment for either.

Manitoba Agricultural College, with its spacious buildings, beautiful surroundings, comfortable rooms and the good fare provided in its bright and airy dining hall, is an ideal place for such a gathering, especially in August. The programme of addresses and discussions will afford opportunities of great value for the comparison of ideas, the exchanging of experiences and the assimilation of information. In addition there will be the newspaper competition conducted on similar lines to that of last year. The competition is open to newspapers published in towns of not more than 4,000 inhabitants between Lake Superior and British Columbia. Six prizes are offered besides the cup provided by the Linotype Company as the trophy for the winner of the first prize. There will also be two other competitions. One is for the cup offered by the Sales Managers' Association of Canada to the newspaper giving the best advertising service to local merchants during the month of July, 1922, and the other is the competition for the gold watch put up by the Toronto Type Foundry Co., Limited, for the newspaper giving the best local news service.

MRS. FRANK WILKIE, of Syracuse, N. Y., formerly matron at the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y., who says she is delighted with Tanlac since it restored her health after she suffered eight years.

"This is the first time in eight years that I have been free from stomach trouble and it is all because of the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," said Mrs. Frank Wilkie, 229 Cedar St., Syracuse, N. Y. Mrs. Wilkie formerly resided in Buffalo and for two years was matron of the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y.

"I was eating scarcely enough to keep alive," she declared, "for I would rather not touch a bite than suffer the misery I knew would follow. Even sweet milk disagreed with me. I was sick in bed for two and three days at a time, and gas on my stomach made such awful pressure on my heart it almost cut off my breath. I had horrible dreams at night and in the morning was all tired out."

"Well, the longest day I live I will praise Tanlac, for my improvement has been simply remarkable. I have no more heartburn, my appetite is wonderful, I can eat most anything I want, and my sleep is sound and restful. I am thoroughly delighted with Tanlac. It is wonderful!"

Just a Picnic.

Tuesday's picnic given by Stony Plain U.F.W.A. drew a good crowd, which took a keen interest in the afternoon's program of real sporting events. The auto races were well contested, the winners being, Class A G Zucht, Class B Henry Enders.

The bucking contest excited great interest, and was won by M. B. McColl, after the buckler had put young Mr. Davidson back on the ground.

The greased pig was captured by Chester Kimmerville, with Philip Sinner a close second; the silver watch on top of the greased pole was taken by James McKenzie; while the prize in the old Highland sport, tossing the caber, was won by that eminent Scotsman, Mr. Gustaf Zucht.

The demonstration of cutting firewood given by the ladies was worth the price of admission. This was won by Mrs. Jamieson, with Mrs. M. McKinlay 2d.

Sawing the green poplar poles prize went to Mrs. M. McKinlay, with Mrs. C. Pitzler 2d.

The steer-riding had to be postponed, as the animals refused to be driven from the range into the kraal.

A full list of the prize-winners in the forty other events will appear in next week's issue.

Garage No. 3.

Mr. Peter Baron, an enterprising citizen of Stony Plain, whose announcement appears in another column, is now engaged in the erection of a new garage at the head of Main St. His new partner, Mr. Summerfield, arrived in town on Friday last, and work is proceeding on the new building at top speed. Mr. Baron has been running a passenger service to the City in his big Studebaker car, and has also been operating a truck service.

Mr. Chester was a Saturday visitor at Mr. Kerguiding's.

Holborn U.F.W.A. will hold its next regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. MacKinnon.

A weekly auto truck service to Stony is now being run for the convenience of cream producers across the river.

Tuesday was a busy day at the Comet Rifle Butts, Johnnie Miller having his team down early in the morning; and the shooting proceeded until the picnic commenced in the afternoon.

While the driver of a big six roadster was negotiating the corner at the baseline he misjudged the distance and put his car over the grade. The occupants escaped with few injuries, but getting the car back on the road required the help of four horses and inconvenienced about 50 other cars.

The Bright Bank Ladies' Aid held a meeting yesterday afternoon, which proved to be very interesting.

The rain storm on Thursday night came as a very welcome change to some districts, and the crops have all been freshened up. The oats and barley are now doing well, and the early-sown wheat has taken on new life. Some lay growers think the shower came too late to have been of any good to their product.

An Auto Club was organized last week at Onoway.
